G. O. P. BOASTING INSURGENT PEACE

Washington, December 6.—(A.P.)—Progress apparently is being made toward healing the breach between administration and insurgent house republicans.

Rep. John Q. Tilson, the republican floor leader, said today he had received assurances there would be no independent insurgent group at the present session or in the next congress.

Just what committee plums will be accorded the insurgents for their return to the fold will not be decided until the republican committee on committees meets, perhaps late this week.

Rep. Nelson, of Wisconsin, the insurgent leader, may be given the chairmanship of the pensions committee as part of the peace treaty.

(United News Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, December 6.—Senator Walsh, of Montana, who brought out the story of the $100,000 Doherty-Fall loan, today began proceedings against a new senator on the basis of an alleged campaign gift of $100,000 the senator made in 1918 which a Canadian judge described as "an act of bribery."

Walsh presented a resolution shortly after the senate convened for the short session, calling for an investigation by the privileges and elections committee of charges that Arthur H. Gould, newly-elected senator from Maine, contributed $100,000 to the campaign fund of J. K. Fleming, premier of New Brunswick, the contribution being hooked up with a Canadian railroad project in which Gould was interested.

Senate Control at Stake.

The charge will be the basis of action to oust Gould from the senate and seat his democratic colleague, Pelton J. Redman. This would give the democrats a majority of one in the next senate. The resolution will be taken up Tuesday and is expected to be adopted.

Gould was standing at the front of the senate with three other new members to be sworn in when Walsh sprang this sensation of the otherwise routine opening of congress. Vice President Dawes was ready to administer the oath.

Walsh arose from his place on the democratic side of the chamber. The attention of his colleagues and the packed galleries turned upon him. He was recognized and in his precise voice broke the intense silence.

"Mr. President, charges of a serious nature have been made against the senator from Maine."

Gould Stand Silent.

There was an intake of breath throughout the senate chamber. It seemed that everyone present held their breath until the resolution Walsh then presented was read. Gould stood

LEAGUE CONFERS ON END OF ALLIED GERMAN CONTROL

Outlook Hopeful for Early Cessation of Military Occupation, Delegates Say After Meeting.

Geneva, December 6.—(A.P.)—Abolition of inter-allied military control in Germany is believed to be a step nearer realization, although the "Big Five" powers meeting in secret conference today failed to reach an agreement.

The powers represented were Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy. Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, acted as chairman. On emerging from the conference the statesmen appeared hopeful.

Stresemann Optimistic.

Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, who came to Geneva rather downcast, but hopeful that what Germany wanted would be granted, seemed more optimistic than at any time since his arrival.

M. Vandervelde, Belgian foreign minister, remarked: "It was not so bad. An agreement will be reached."

M. Briand, of France, had nothing to say, and Signor Scialoja, appearing in behalf of Premier Mussolini of Italy, also was silent. An official communique contained this comment: "We are satisfied with the progress made. We will have further meetings and hope that an agreement will be reached."

This conference of the "Big Five" was subsequent to the opening session of the 43rd council of the league, which is to take under consideration relations between Germany and the other powers, particularly with respect to the Rhineland occupation and inter-allied military control in Germany. Merely routine business was transacted by the council.

Would Blow Up Forts.

With respect to military control, the German spokesman said that if the modernization of the German fortresses along the Polish frontier alone was holding back French and Polish acquiescence in the plan to substitute investigation of Germany's armaments by the League of Nations for inter-allied control, Germany was willing to blow up the fortresses improvements because fortresses without heavy artillery were valueless anyway.

It is generally thought that Dr. Stresemann would prefer to come to some terms with the other powers in the way of conversations rather than have the entire question debated in the council.

POMEROY DENIES JEWELER'S PLEA FOR INJUNCTION

Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court Monday denied a petition for injunction seeking to restrain the city of Atlanta and approximately 25 Atlanta retail jewelers from interfering with Benjamin Cleine and Michael Eilman, jewelry auctioneers, in the sale of jewelry by auction between the hours of 6 p. m. and 6 a. m.

The petition was brought by the jewelry auctioneers, and pointed out that the ordinance passed by city council prohibiting the sale of jewelry between the stipulated hours was unconstitutional and void; that the retail jewelers had conspired against plaintiffs for the purpose of running them out of business, and in an effort to monopolize the Christmas sales.

The petitioners were represented by Attorneys W. Paul Carpenter and Homer Alexander; the city of Atlanta by City Attorney James L. Mayson and Courtland S. Winn, and the jewelers by the law firm of Alston, Alston, Foster & Moise.

Jack Daniels, of Birmingham, Claims Possession of Liquor Seized in Raid on Hunting Camp.

ALL OTHER CASES ARE NOT PROSSED

Daniels Is Fined $200 and Costs—Governor Brandon Fails To Attend Bay Minette Trial.

Bay Minette, Ala., December 6.—(A.P.)—Charges of violating the prohibition law against Governor W. W. Brandon, seven of his friends and a negro servant were not pressed in county court here today after Jack Daniels, of Birmingham, the eighth member of the governor's party taken in a raid on a fishing camp, where he was a guest had pleaded guilty to ownership of 13 quarts of whiskey seized in the camp.

Daniels was fined $250 and costs, whereupon the other cases were dismissed on recommendation of the county solicitor in a trial which lasted only 45 minutes. Governor Brandon and four of his codefendants, but did not appear in court. They were: Davis R. Castleman and William M. Castleman, Louisville business men; Addison R. Smith, vice president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and Will R. Reed, negro servant.

Cases Dismissed.

The other cases were dismissed were: Charles P. Anderson, brother-in-law of Governor-Elect Bibb Graves, and Atticus Mullin, newspaper man, both of Montgomery; Joe Seth and Carr McCormick, of Birmingham.

The case, which was first expected to come to trial shortly after noon, was not called until 4:40 o'clock and business in the courtroom was practically at a standstill for two hours while judge, solicitor and attorney for the defense held consultations on procedure for the trial.

Norborne C. Stone, attorney for the defense, offered to have Mr. Daniels plead guilty as soon as the session reconvened following noon recess but the prosecutor was unwilling to agree to have all other warrants withdrawn, he said.

Later in the afternoon following a conference between defense and prosecution, it was agreed to have all cases postponed until later in the month, but the two sides found it impossible to agree on a date. Shortly after 4 o'clock it was decided to readopt the original plan and the trial finally got under way. Solicitor Hall asked that one defendant be tried alone and that the result apply to all, which was immediately refused by the defense owing to the difference of pleas. All four defendants were placed on trial together.

R. O. Wiggins, chief deputy sheriff, who led the raid, was first called to the stand. He described the location of the camp, its occupants positions in the room in which the whiskey was found. No one showed any sign of having or possessing the whiskey in his presence, he said, and no liquor was on the table around which the men were grouped.

Did Not Touch Liquor.

Wiggins was followed on the stand by Deputy J. T. White, who substantiated the testimony given by his chief. M. O. Jones, of Bon Secour, a member of the party which raided the camp, said filled whiskey glasses were placed on the table and the trial finally got under way. RUM SHIP FOUND IN MEXICAN PORT; KIDNAPERS HELD Missing Prohibition Agent and Coast Guardsman Are Safe and in Command of Vessel.

MESSAGE RECEIVED FROM PROHIBITION AGENT

New Orleans, December 6.—(A.P.)—The cablegram received here tonight from J. B. Mathews, assistant prohibition administrator of the gulf zone, follows:

"Arrived here today 10 a. m. with Arsene J. and crew. Handley, from coast guard, with me. Customs officer has schooner in custody. Crew of schooner in penalty. Took us out of intended course. Acting American Consul J. Starks. Cable instructions his care."

New Orleans, La., December 6.—

The deputy prohibition administrator and the coast guardsman who were kidnapped last week by the French liquor runner, Arsene J. are in Puerto Mexico, in the state of Vera Cruz, and have their kidnappers under arrest, according to a cablegram received tonight by Prohibition Administrator Jackson.

Prohibition Agent J. B. Mathews and Guardsman Handley were placed upon the French schooner 65 miles off the coast to bring her into port more than a week ago. Off the passes of the Mississippi the fuel ran out, and the capturing cutter passed her a line. During a squall the line broke and the Arsene J. went away before the wind, with the boarding crew outnumbered ten to one.

Almost every government patrol and picket boat on the gulf has aided in the search for the kidnappers. Today Prohibition Administrator Jackson searched the gulf in an airplane.

The cablegram stated that the schooner reached Puerto Mexico, at 10 o'clock Monday morning, and that "We have taken possession of her and hold her awaiting instructions."

KENTUCKY DEMANDS EMBEZZLER SUSPECT

Frankfort, Ky., December 6.—(A.P.)—Governor Fields today requested Governor Peay, of Tennessee, for the return of E. L. Love, who is being held in a Tennessee jail. Love is wanted on a charge of embezzling $1,853.03 in Harlan county.

EXPERTS INSPECT GEORGIA LAND

Government Agricultural Experts Pleased With Lee County Tract; Visit Other States.

Albany, Ga., December 6.—(A.P.)—Members of a government commission of special advisers on reclamation and rural development, appointed by Secretary Work, of the interior department, arrived in Albany this morning and today inspected a tract of 11,800 acres of land in Lee county.

The land has been selected by state authorities as typical for the study of opportunities in planned rural development in Georgia.

The party returned to Albany tonight and members stated that they were very much impressed with the land seen and expressed the opinion that much land in this section offers many opportunities for colonization and settlement by farmers desiring to engage in diversified farming.

Members of the party stated that no report would be made on the Georgia lands until all the southern states have been visited and a complete report was compiled for the congressional committee that will receive it.

The party left here tonight after inspecting the Lee county tract for Montgomery, from where the members will proceed to Selma to make a similar inspection.

The special advisers in the party are Howard Elliott, chairman of the board of directors of the Northern Pacific railway; George Soule, economist and director of the National Association for Economic Research; and Daniel C. Roper, former commissioner of interior revenue and long connected with agriculture in South Carolina.

Accompanying Mr. Elliott are J. M. Hughes, land commissioner of the Northern Pacific railway, and Dr. C. H. Duncan, economist of the Association of Railway Executives.

The interior department is represented by Elwood Mead, commissioner of the bureau of reclamation; Copie Acory, expert reclamation economist; Hugh McLean, special adviser,

2 SAILORS DROWN IN LAKE ICE JAM

140 Vessels Now Trapped in St. Marys River and 14 Caught in St. Lawrence.

New York, December 6.—The blizzard that has lashed the eastern half of the country for 24 hours, causing 20 deaths, throwing lake and ocean-going steamers off their schedules and hampering land travel, will continue until noon Tuesday, according to latest weather bureau forecasts.

Sweeping in from Ohio the wave of intense cold has now enveloped all of New England and states south to Virginia.

At least four ships were in distress on the Atlantic Monday when the blizzard extended far out to sea. River and lake navigation was halted by high winds and ice.

140 Ships Ice Jammed.

Coast guards were working night and day to release the 140 lake boats locked in the channels of the St. Marys river near Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., by ice jams.

With temperatures in that locality falling rapidly there was increasing danger that the car ferry, Sainte Marie, battering ram of the ice breaking fleet, would be frozen in. Owners of the icebound freighters faced huge losses in event the ships could not be released. Two sailors drowned trying to reach shore when they fell in holes in the ice.

Railroads found difficulty clearing their tracks sufficiently to keep trains on schedule throughout the east. Thousands of commuters in the metropolitan area spent several hours getting to their homes because of the abnormal conditions in the suburbs.

A survey of the storm area showed 12 deaths in greater New York, three in Michigan, six in New England, three in Buffalo and two in Chicago.

7 Inches of Snow.

In New York city, where a seven-inch snow fell, 23,000 shovellers were fighting to keep the main arteries of traffic open.

Ice and snow in the switches of elevated, surface and suburban transportation lines delayed the operation of trains to such an extent that many stations were jammed beyond capacity with home-goers.

Railroads reported car trains from three to five hours late while local transportation lines said many stations were jammed beyond capacity with home-goers.

A fall of 12 inches of snow was reported in New England.

Novelty schools were ashore on the blizzard, but there had been no loss of life. Fourteen boats are icebound in the St. Lawrence river.

Lowest temperatures of the winter prevailed over most of the middle west the mercury ranging between five and 20 degrees above zero, Moosehead, Minn., had a temperature of 12 below.

Former Cabinet Member Must Meet Conspiracy Charge With Sinclair, Supreme Court Rules.

ROBISON ADMITS DECEIVING DENBY

War Scare Bugaboo Pops Feebly as It Develops To Have Been During Arms Conference.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, December 6.—Blue Monday brought more woes for the aging defendants in the Fall-Doherty oil conspiracy trial.

Albert B. Fall learned that as soon as he is through being tried for conspiracy with E. L. Doherty, he must stand trial on similar charges for his alleged transactions with Harry F. Sinclair. This oil man obtained the lease on Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, in Wyoming. He also gave extensive financial aid to Fall much as Doherty did.

The cases are similar in nature but involve totally separate transactions all around. The supreme court upheld the Sinclair-Fall indictments. Government prosecutors said they would be ready for trial about the middle of January.

Fall and Doherty gazed on the disheartening spectacle of their star witness, Admiral J. K. Robinson, being battered under terrific cross-examination by Owen J. Roberts, governor of the Washington arms conference.

War Scare Exploded.

Roberts forced the admiral to admit that the alleged Japanese war scare could not have been taken very seriously here, it occurred during the Washington arms conference.

Robinson admitted that despite the defense insistence on secrecy about the deals for military reasons, Asiatic land was employed in building the Hawaiian tanks, and that they stood out in plain sight of everybody in the vicinity, potential enemies included.

He also admitted that he misled his superior, Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy, as to the real reason behind the second Doherty oil lease and likewise withheld vital information about them from two members of congress who inquired.

Doherty's infected arm apparently became worse. Court was adjourned half an hour early that he might go back to his hotel to rest. He looked tired and seemed somewhat depressed. But he still hopes to sit through the trial which should end in about 10 days.

Doherty kept his arm hung in a sling made of a bright-colored silk handkerchief.

Robison On Stand.

Robison was under cross-examination practically all day. Government prosecutors asked him to strengthen his testimony. Most of the jurors listened closely for the first

VETOES BY MAYOR ARE OVERRIDDEN AFTER WORDY ROW

Alderman Pennington Defeats Sims' Supporters as First Act in Aldermanic Body.

A councilmanic word battle in which supporters of two vetoes of Mayor Walter A. Sims and those opposing them exchanged personalities was precipitated Monday when Alderman Robert F. Pennington, of the first ward, pushed through papers overriding the mayor.

This was the first act of Alderman Pennington in the new post to which he was elected last Wednesday, and followed closely on the heels of his induction into the position. He was elected to succeed H. Turner Loeber, who resigned to accept Mr. Pennington's office as councilman.

The fight occurred when a communication of the mayor vetoing two papers carrying with them appropriations of $4,000 was brought up. One provided that the city pay $3,000 as one-third of the cost of paving Fourth street from Marietta to Davis street and the other $1,000 to purchase a new automobile for the chief of construction.

Cites Saving of $4,500.

Mr. Pennington contended that a fund of $4,500 was salvaged by Chief of Construction William A. Hansell from the repaving of Forsyth street and that the money rightfully belongs to the first ward. He denied that the special appropriation and readjustment committee authorized at the meeting of city council November 22 permitted this body to reappropriate the money thus saved.

Council sustained him in both skirmishes and authorized the paving and the purchase of the chief's car. It was predicted that the aldermanic board would hold up both papers, and when that body met, only two votes were mustered against it.

Alderman William B. Hartsfield opposed overriding the mayor, and the purchase of the chief's car. It was predicted that the city government at the close of the year will face a deficit of approximately $300,000. He declared that the city is in a financial condition to assume other obligations. His appeal failed to prevent passage of the motions of override.

Hartsfield Sustains Mayor.

Mr. Hartsfield, Mr. Pennington and Councilman Harry York, of the sixth, engaged in an exchange of personalities. Mr. York and Pennington favoring passage of the papers notwithstanding the mayor's veto, and Mr. Hartsfield contending that the city should "stay within the bounds

Dramatic Climax of Inquest Reached When Girl's Aged Father Tells of Weird Dream.

SUSPECT TAKEN ON GEORGIA FARM

Alma, Ga., December 6.—

(A.P.)—A youth said to answer the description of Erdman Olson, sought in connection with the murder of his sweetheart, Clara Olson, near Prairie De Chien, Wis., is being held in the Bacon county jail here and Sheriff Walter L. Johnson has wired Wisconsin authorities for a more detailed description.

The suspect, who gave his name as John Pittman, was described by Sheriff Johnson as 18 or 19 years old, about five feet six inches in height, with a scar above his right eye and brown hair.

Receiving a "tip" yesterday that a man answering Olson's description was working on a farm about 12 miles from here, Sheriff Johnson took the youth in custody. He said he came from Miami, Fla.

Prairie Du Chien, Wis., December 6.—A bereaved father's dream that his daughter had been killed by her 15-year-old seducer was transformed into stern reality today when a coroner's jury held Erdman Sanford Olson responsible for the death of his 22-year-old sweetheart.

The inquest over the body of Clara Olson reached a dramatic climax when Christ Olson, her quarrel old father, recited the fantastic dream in which he saw his girl buried in the sod of a nearby ridge. The jurors then took one ballot and returned a verdict declaring that "Clara Olson came to her death by blows on the head struck by Erdman Sanford Olson."

Drinking Is Charged.

Supplementing the dream testimony was a letter from young Erdman, which had dropped from Clara's dress when her body was taken from its shallow hillside grave a week ago, and the statements of two farmers who had seen Erdman drinking with a stranger on the night of September 9. This was the night on which he is alleged to have taken Clara from her home to the hillside where her body was found.

Christ said he had dreamed his daughter's body was "in a shallow grave with her face downward on a hill near Battle Ridge." He said he

CAMPAIGN BEGINS FOR YOUNG HARRIS

Workers Open Week's Drive for $150,000 Endowment Fund Today; Enthusiastic Meeting Monday.

Appeals to the heart of Atlanta, to the heart of men and women, swept over the chamber of commerce hall like a whirlwind last night as President Joe Sharp and a score of graduates told the story of Young Harris college and pleaded for the success of the $150,000 endowment campaign which begins today.

More than 150 workers in the Young Harris campaign, perhaps a third of them former students of the struggling school in north Georgia, assembled on the eve of the city-wide campaign to receive their pledge cards and territories and to hear addresses of inspiration from the men and women who owe everything they treasure in life to the teachings and influence of the little school in the mountains which has carried on for 40 years without asking aid from the outside world. At the close of the meeting every worker present pledged a substantial subscription and promised to work faithfully all this week or until the $150,000 for a permanent endowment for Young Harris shall be raised.

Twenty students from the college, boys and girls, fairly swept the audience off its feet as they told of what Young Harris had done for them. There was a beautiful girl of 17, whose parents lived in the darkest cove of the Blue Ridge who had traveled a half day in a wagon to knock at the door of Young Harris. She had no money, no influence, nothing but an indomitable ambition to gain an education—and they took her in. When

Minimum Price For Cotton Urged In Langford's Bill

Washington, December 6.—(P)—Formation of a federal cotton corporation with a capital stock of $500,000,000 with authority to fix a minimum price of cotton was proposed in a bill offered today in the house by Representative Langford, democrat, Georgia.

The measure is designed in a way along lines of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill except that no provision is made for a surplus.

The bill would enable the corporation composed of the secretary of agriculture and six directors appointed by the president from recommendations by governors of cotton growing states, to issue stocks and notes up to $3,000,000,000. With these funds, the director would be authorized to buy up for short staple cotton on a basis of good middling at 22c per pound and other grades at proportionate prices.

While the bill makes no provision for taking care of surplus, it directs the managers to make a yearly survey before January 15, to determine the available acreage and what should be planted.

The bill makes no provision for possible losses to the board, should cotton prices fall below 22c.

The measure is designed in a way along lines of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill except that no provision is made for a surplus.

The bill would enable the corporation composed of the secretary of agriculture and six directors appointed by the president from recommendations by governors of cotton growing states, to issue stocks and notes up to $3,000,000,000. With these funds, the director would be authorized to buy up for short staple cotton on a basis of good middling at 22c per pound and other grades at proportionate prices.

While the bill makes no provision for taking care of surplus, it directs the managers to make a yearly survey before January 15, to determine the available acreage and what should be planted.

The bill makes no provision for possible losses to the board, should cotton prices fall below 22c.

Representative Langford, democrat, Georgia.

they will not oppose the resolution. But that does not mean there will not be debate. They will attempt, however, to prevent the debate from getting beyond bounds into the general subject of senatorial qualifications, which might go into the field of the recent elections in Pennsylvania and Illinois and the excessive campaign expenditures there.

Thus the senate began with this surprise a session that is expected to be filled with surprises and fireworks, all of which may interfere seriously with legislative business.

Republicans had feared such action from the democrats, as a body had planned no such action. Walsh, the man of surprises, acted alone. He had told only one other senator of his projected resolution, so that democrats probably were more startled than republicans. His party will swing in behind his move, as it has done before.

Walsh said after the 30-minute session today that he had no further information regarding the charges against Gould than is known generally. His resolution embodied the charges of bribery made by Chief Justice McKenna, of New Brunswick, who investigated the case.

Case Stands Alone. Walsh said he had no intention by his resolution today of laying the groundwork for action against Senators-elect Vane, of Pennsylvania, and Smith, of Illinois, which republicans had feared. He pointed out that those cases are different, hinging about elections, while his action against Gould does not involve an election.

Outside of Walsh's unexpected move, the opening of congress in other respects was similar to many others. There was much loud grunting on the floors, as at the first day of school, until the gavel of Vice President Davis in the senate and Speaker Longworth in the house checked the hubbub. There was the usual crowd of spectators in the galleries, filling every available seat in the senate, and nearly every seat in the more spacious galleries of the house. Alice Longworth watched her husband from the front row of the speaker's private gallery.

Longworth's entrance upon the noisy scene brought a torrent of hand-clapping. He ordered the roll called, which took 45 minutes and showed 336 out of the 435 members present. Four new members were sworn in: Representatives Englebright and Welch, of California, republicans, and Dallinger, of Massachusetts, republican, and Cochran, of Missouri, democrat. Then the house adjourned for the day.

Curts Offers Resolutions. After the Walsh resolution had been presented and laid over until Tuesday, the republican floor leader offered the usual opening resolutions, one notifying the house that the senate was in session, the other appointing a committee to join with a similar committee from the house to notify President Coolidge that congress was ready to receive his message.

Eighty-eight members of the senate responded to the roll call. Among those missing were Senator Reed, of Missouri; young Bob La Follette, of Wisconsin; McKinney, of Illinois; and Watson, of Indiana. The three latter being ill.

Two cabinet members were present on the floor of the senate today, Attorney General Sargent and Secretary of State Kellogg, the latter a former member.

1,000 BILLS OFFERED AS CONGRESS MEETS. Washington, December 6.—(P)—Congress had hardly drawn its first breath today before more than 1,000 bills and resolutions poured in to be added to the 12,000 bequeathed to this session by the last.

The first bill introduced produced a joint resolution by Representative Gallivan, democrat, Massachusetts, that put the question of prohibition up to congress in a more than 1,000 words, and dry battle on a grand scale.

In simple terms it proposed a national referendum on the question: "Should the congress of the United States modify the federal act to enforce the eighteenth amendment so that the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation or exportation of beverages which are not in fact intoxicating as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective state." The resolution would authorize the states to conduct the referendum in 1928, the federal treasury to reimburse them for its cost.

Chairman Grist, of the house post office committee, offered a handful of bills to restore the one-cent postal rate and to make other changes in postal charges and service.

Georgians Introduce Bills. Representative Lankford, democrat, Georgia, proposed formation of a federal cotton corporation, with $500,000,000 authorized to buy up for short staple cotton on a basis of good middling at 22c per pound and other grades at proportionate prices.

Representative Black, democrat, Texas, offered a bill to prevent the secretary of agriculture from forecasting cotton acreage in advance, based on farmers' intentions to plant, while Representative Wright, democrat, Georgia, sought repeal of the law providing for semi-monthly agricultural reports simultaneously with publication of gluing reports.

Banking regulations were touched upon in bills by Representative Brand, democrat, Georgia.

Issuance of new radio broadcasting licenses would be prohibited under a resolution introduced by Representative White, republican, Maine, while Representative Dickinson, democrat, she had finished her academic course there seemed no chance to go further—but a Sunday school class at Hapeville financed her for another year, and soon she will be graduated and go into the mission field.

New York, would give Secretary Hobbs full charge over wave lengths into authority to refuse new licenses until a permanent policy is worked out.

Student From Russia. There were others of the students who told similar stories. There was a quartet from Young Harris which sang beautifully and touchingly, and Basil Ossipoff, a young Russian, who found his way from exile in China to the Georgia mountains, played the violin like a Kreisler. He announced, however, that he had no intention of becoming a violinist. His only ambition was to return to Russia and spread the news there of a religion of love and understanding.

President J. A. Sharp, who has served the college for a pitance for many years, made the great address of the evening. He moved his audience to applause on frequent occasions as he told of the struggles of mountain boys and girls to obtain an education; how they were willing to work long hours after school and study until far into the night; how hundreds were necessarily turned away because there was absolutely no room in the school which already had found some place to sleep for 450 students when 350 were the outside capacity.

Harlowe Branch of the Atlanta Journal, a graduate of Young Harris, spoke eloquently of what the school had done for him. He paid a glowing tribute to the genius and energy and love of President Joe Sharp, the spirit of Young Harris, and pleaded for generous subscriptions to the endowment fund.

Carl N. Davis, Atlanta Attorney, and graduate of Young Harris, also made a stirring appeal for an institution which has so long been neglected by the Methodist church and which has sent more than 100 young men into the ministry.

Still Serving Mountains. Dr. Sharp brought out the fact that Young Harris still is serving the boys and girls for whom its founder intended it. The young folk of the Georgia mountains. Of its 450 students, he said, 313 are from north of Macon. Towns county, where Young Harris is situated, has sent most students of all, and next is Fulton county, of which 36 representatives are now seeking an education.

"Only 116 of the student body," Dr. Sharp said, "are paying all their own expenses through college this year. Out of the 450, a total of 124 are paying their way by work; 47 are studying for the ministry; the rest are going through on money borrowed from various funds, to be repaid from their earnings after graduation."

Colonel W. L. Peel, chairman of the executive committee, who recently announced a gift of $5,000 to start the endowment fund, presided at the meeting. He celebrated last week his seventy-seventh birthday, but he has given 90 per cent of his time for the last six weeks to the Young Harris campaign.

Among the Young Harris students who drove the 125 miles to Atlanta Monday afternoon to take part in the campaign were:

Miss Thelma Young Atlanta; Blanche Strong, Hall county; Bertha Shuler, Cherokee, Ga.; Basil Ossipoff, Siberia; Bradley Dillard, Athens; Louis Huchaby, Hepzibah; James Christie, Danielsville; Roland Burgess, Bon Air. The four last named formed the college quartet which sang several numbers.

More than 150 workers will take the field early today, determined to round up the $150,000 endowment fund before the end of the week. First reports will be made Wednesday at noon, at a luncheon to be held at the chamber of commerce.

FIVE WORKERS DIE IN POWDER BLAST

Penns Grove, N. J., December 6.—(P)—An explosion of 2,800 pounds of sporting powder at the Carney's Point plant of the Du Pont Powder company today killed five workmen and injured 12 others, none of them seriously.

Of the injured four remained in a hospital. One has a broken leg, while the others are suffering from bruises and lacerations which may keep them in the hospital for a few days.

The other five injured were treated for cuts and returned to work. The accident occurred when Tondan, a first-class operator, in charge of the other four men, who were killed, as a crew of helpers, was unloading the 2,800 pounds of powder at the dry house. Since all the men immediately concerned were killed, the cause of the explosion is not known, but the company is conducting an investigation.

The explosion wrecked the building and damaged the adjoining glazing house in which those who were injured were at work. The wrecked building was one-story brick and corrugated iron construction. The force of the explosion shattered glass and partly damaged other buildings several hundred feet away.

A rough estimate of the property damage placed it at about $25,000.

MY ADVENTURES IN THE GOLDEN AGE OF MUSIC

By HENRY T. FINCK

An autobiography of a man who was probably the most brilliant writer and keenest critic of music in America. With the same flashes of wit and searching inquiry that characterized his musical criticisms, Mr. Finck examines his own life and gave us a volume to be prized and cherished by every music lover.

Brilliant Pen Sketches of Musical Celebrities

It is not too much to say that this is Mr. Finck's crowning achievement in literature. He recalls his early life, his romances, his college days, his wanderings in Europe, and his experiences on the Evening Post with a freshness and sustained interest that is altogether fascinating. There are reminiscences about Theodore Thomas, the de Hoven, Patti, Caruso, Anton Sedit, James Calver, Nordica, Melba, and the others in that glorious galaxy of stars down to Maria Jeritza, Bori, Easton, Gail-Curtis, Percy Grainger.

There is added importance attached to this volume in that it is the author's last work—the final proofs were received but a few days before he passed away on October 4th, 1926.

NICHOLS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE

George A. Nichols, 47, former church secretary and chairman of the board of deacons of the fashionable Druid Hills Baptist church, pleaded guilty Monday before Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court to embezzling $6,594.85 of the church funds and was sentenced to serve from two to five years on the chain-gang.

Prior to entrance of the plea Nichols' counsel told the court that restitution had been made by a Baltimore bonding company and that relatives of the defendant planned to reimburse the company. The court, however, declined to reduce the charge to a misdemeanor and imposed the minimum sentence for embezzlement. The defalcations were said to have been admitted by Nichols following an investigation instituted by the Baltimore bonding company after the church secretary had reported that several weeks before he had been kidnapped by unidentified men, taken to Grant park lake, and after iodine had been poured down his throat to prevent him from giving an alarm, thrown into the lake. Before forcing him to go to the park the kidnapers, he said, made an attempt to burn the office, wherein the records of the finances of the church were kept. Investigation showed that kerosene had been applied to the temporary office building and that the attempt to set fire to the building had been made from the outside.

The confession of Nichols was made at a special prayer meeting of the church November 17 and resulted in his exclusion from the fellowship of the Baptist church and withdrawal of his privilege to preach.

The funds which Nichols reported at the meeting to have misappropriated to his own personal use were said to have been taken from funds collected for a new church edifice and the money set aside for missionary work.

Fools' Paradise

The Startling Story of a Girl's Great Folly

AS private secretary to Fred Joyce, the prominent attorney, Jane's position was a singularly fortunate one. She held a post of real importance. Her hours were easy, and her salary sufficient to provide the little comforts and luxuries that a normal, healthy girl demands of life.

Yet she was unhappy. She envied the women who have money and leisure to do and go as they pleased. She continually dreamed of escape from the sordid world of business into a world of freedom and gaiety.

Then came her opportunity. One morning her employer took her hand and said: "Little girl, we've been working hard in this office. We both deserve a holiday. Let's take one. A long one. We'll do Paris, London and the Continent. Winter in Naples, and summer at Deauville. I'll buy your hats, gowns, everything your heart desires. Will you go?"

Jane's senses whirled. The Continent! Paris! The mecca of every girl's dreams! Here were all the luxuries she had ever wanted, within her grasp. But her finer instincts warned her that her employer's proposal was wrong and could only end in tragedy.

She was about to refuse when Joyce brought out a magnificent rope of pearls, dangled them before her yearning eyes—slipped them around her neck, where they lay like a soft caress, making her skin tingle. Her head swam; and when her tempter whispered: "Will you accept them?" his voice seemed to come from far away.

His picture of luxury and pleasure rose vividly in her imagination. Torn between desire on one hand and self-loathing on the other—she fought for the strength, the courage, to say no! But when finally she slowly turned her burning face to his, he read her answer in her eyes.

Had Jane counted the cost in bitter sorrow and agony that was to grow out of that mad compact, she would have destroyed herself rather than take that first foolish, fatal step.

Her pitiful story, with the names disguised for obvious reasons, appears in the January issue of True Story Magazine. It is entitled, "My Dangerous Paradise." Those who think there is no price too high to pay for leisure and luxury, will find in this girl's sad story a lesson they will never forget.

Other Heart-Gripping Features in January True Story are:

"True Story a Great Teacher" —Says Prominent Minister

For some time, more than two years in fact, I have been interested in TRUE STORY MAGAZINE. I think it an excellent publication, chiefly for the reason that "Truth is stronger than fiction." In the first place it relates the incidents in the stories in a true and unembellished manner, leaving nothing to the imagination, still being couched in language which will not give offense to the most fastidious. In the second place, it teaches the great lesson of caution in dealing with the vital element of life and passion, and sounds a warning to young people such as every pulpit in the land aims to declare. In the third place, the greatest lessons in life are those gleaned from experience, either in our own lives or the lives of others. Therefore, in the experience of those who have passed through the trials related in its pages, the great lessons of life are clearly and graphically taught. I would like to see TRUE STORY MAGAZINE in every home in the land.

Very truly yours, so far as physical perfection goes. No wonder the girls were wild about him—and Ellie's heart near burst with gladness when he singled her out as his future mate. Long drives in beloved moonlit lanes became their nightly program—and then one day he brought her a message that was to bring her love castle tumbling about her ears, and fill her life with tragedy. A powerful lesson-story every girl should read.

"What His Wife Found Out"—Genevieve realized that her love for Holden was wrong; that she could never hope to win him from his doll-like wife. Yet she could not give him up—could not steel her heart against him when he declared his undying love for her. But when the crash came—

"My Taste of Life"—This is a story of a woman's discontent—of a woman who had every comfort that money can buy, including a loyal husband's love—but who longed for the gay lights of the city, the revelry of the night clubs, theatres, dancing, dining. An invitation to visit a friend for a few weeks gave her the excuse she wanted. She went. Every girl, every wife, who is deluded by the so-called gay life of the city should read this startling true-life narrative.

The Penalties of Ignorance

Some people try to explain wrong-doing among their fellows on the grounds that human beings are willfully perverse. The evidence of life itself, however, will not support such a conclusion.

Most wrong-doing can be traced directly to ignorance or misinformation regarding the certain penalties that follow moral and spiritual transgressions of every kind.

The only cure for ignorance is education; and the quickest, surest, most permanent form of teaching is that based upon example—lessons learned by others like ourselves in the sad and often tragic School of Experience.

It is a smashing campaign of moral education that is being waged by True Story Magazine. By setting forth the experiences of those who, through innocence, ignorance, indifference or folly, have violated the Divine code of Right; by revealing the temptations, traps and pitfalls that strew the pathways of life to catch unwary feet—this great periodical is able to instruct, warn, guide and inspire thousands who can be reached in no other way.

Every issue of True Story Magazine contains 18 or 20 powerful, heart-gripping, unforgettable features that drive home the burning truths of life as only a true-life narrative can do. The January issue is a good example. It is now on the newsstands. The cost is only a quarter. Get your copy today!

Woman Lecturer To Outline Views That Were Criticised In Talk To Atlanta Lions

Mrs. Lucy Ames Meade's Views Accepted by Local Ministerial Association After Stormy Debate.

After appearing before the Evangelical Ministers' association Monday, Mrs. Lucy Ames Meade, author, lecturer and advocate of world peace, will speak at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Lions club at 12:30 o'clock today at the Ansley hotel and outline the views which caused a storm of criticism here that resulted in lecture dates being cancelled.

The ministerial association, partially accepted her views in resolutions Monday, when a committee was appointed to draw resolutions "to express cordial agreement with her efforts after world peace," along certain lines. She will more fully explain her views today and will endeavor to give a clear idea that she is not a "red" and "radical" as she has been termed when speaking dates at Emory university and Agnes Scott college were cancelled.

Resolutions presented at the ministerial meeting drew heated debate on both sides, leaders for the opposition being the Rev. J. G. Patton, Sr., pastor of College Park Presbyterian church and the Rev. J. G. Patton, Jr., pastor of the Pryor Street Presbyterian church. After considerable debate on both sides the resolutions were adopted.

ATLANTA

ROBERT W. WOODRUFF
PRESIDENT

December 4, 1926.

Forward Atlanta Commission,
Atlanta, Georgia.

Gentlemen:—

I have been entirely familiar with the work done for Atlanta during the past year and I feel it has been a most valuable contribution to the city. The tabulated figures of the sales you have actually made of Atlanta is sufficient to justify your campaign. The people who have come here and have invested here have bought Atlanta, but in addition your campaign has unquestionably sold thousands of people on Atlanta who have not yet bought.

In this Company we appreciate probably more keenly than most the value of advertising. We have learned the lesson well that as we go on advertising we constantly cash in more and more, as the effect of all advertising is cumulative.

I think there is another splendid result of this advertising campaign to us who are already citizens of Atlanta. It focuses our attention as never before upon the product we sell—Atlanta, and makes us more keenly interested in making that product what we represent in our advertising that it is.

I most heartily commend and support the movement.

Yours very truly
R. W. Woodruff

STATE SCHOOL HEADS ATTEND CONFERENCE

Several state and county school supervisors of Georgia will attend a session of the southeastern conference of state and rural school supervisors at Raleigh, N. C., Tuesday and Wednesday, it was announced Monday by the state department of education. Following this conference, state superintendents of education of the southeastern states will hold a three-day conference, Fort E. Land, state superintendent of schools of Georgia, will leave today to attend the conference.

EVERY MAN who knows advertising, who has used it in his own business, says the same thing: "Atlanta will only get the full benefit of her 1926 campaign by carrying on. And the return per dollar increases with the size of the investment."

Every man who has studied the effect of Atlanta's great advertising program knows that it has helped every business and every person in the city.

There can be no question of the wisdom of going on, of building up on the foundation we have laid, of keeping Atlanta on your payroll.

The fund will be called for at regular intervals over the three year period, and should be charged as a sound investment in your business.

11 JURORS CHOSEN IN MELLETT CASE

Canton, Ohio, December 6.—(AP)—Eleven tentative jurors were selected today at the opening of Patrick Eugene McDermott's trial for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, slain on the night of July 16.

Opposition to capital punishment and opinions as to McDermott's guilt resulted in dismissal of 16 of the 34 gentlemen examined. When Common Pleas Judge Edwin H. Diehl dismissed court today five women and six men had been temporarily seated, with prospects of an additional venire of 21 being called before the jury is completed.

McDermott was charged with Don R. Mellett's murder after an investigation by county, federal and special authorities during which it was ascertained that Mellett's newspaper campaign against "the Jungles" (Canton's underworld), resulted in the plot against his life. Mellett was shot down as he entered his garage. Ben Rudner, Massillon, and Louis Mazer, Canton, indicted with McDermott, are to be tried later.

McDermott presented a strange contrast to his brothers, Tom and Bernard, of Nanty Glo, Pa., who attended the opening of the trial today. The two brothers, who surrendered Patrick to the authorities October 24, closely noted all that occurred, sitting among his lawyers unconcernedly listening to the questioning.

McDermott, who has been called "the trigger man" in the slaying, was moved as Prosecutor McClintock's frequent references to the electric chair shaped the formation of the jury. Occasionally he took a pencil which he kept behind his ear and scribbled notes which he passed to his lawyers, but never did he look at his brothers, whom he accused of "double crossing" him when he was arrested.

Precautions against underworld attempts to create a disturbance were marked. Nine special deputy sheriffs were stationed about the county jail and courthouse and close watch of the spectators who thronged the little court room was maintained.

THREE MEMBERS IN NEW COUNCIL POSTS ON MONDAY

Robert F. Pennington and H. Turner Leach, alderman and councilman-elect from the first ward, and Howard C. McCutcheon, councilman-elect from the second ward, were inducted into office at a special election of city council Monday.

All three members took the oath of office and participated in sessions of that body. Sam Warfield, councilman from the first, offered the names of Pennington, Leach and J. T. Turner, of the second, that C. McCutcheon.

Pennington was a former councilman, and Leach the chairman in the recent elections they decided to exchange posts, and in compliance with a ruling of City Attorney James L. Mayson resigned their positions in order that they would not be elected to fill two city offices at the same time. Council Monday designated them to fill until January 1 the offices to which they were elected in the general city election last Wednesday.

McCutcheon was inducted to fill the vacancy left on account of the resignation of former Councilman Cecil G. Allen, who quit his post for the same reason that the other members did. Council also certified, without a dissenting vote, to all those elected in the city races last Wednesday.

Only three posts were filled Monday in accordance with a ruling of the city attorney to the effect that other members of council who have been seated in that body to fill unexpired terms of members were designated to occupy those places until those named to fill them in the elections take their offices January 1.

VEOTES BY MAYOR ARE OVERRIDDEN

of reason" in the expenditure of its money.

"I am in favor of the improvement and will assist Alderman Pennington to get the money next year, but cannot vote to virtually bankrupt the city," Hartsfield said.

"We, as business men, should use better business judgment. The mayor in vetoing the papers has stated that he favors the improvements, but that the city is in no financial condition to make them at this time."

Friends of the motion to override declared that several employees of the construction department would be laid off unless the paving paper was passed, thus providing work for them.

A second verbal clash came a little later on a paper offered by the police committee of city council which provided for the abandonment of a traffic signal light at Ponce de Leon avenue and Hunt street.

Fourth Ward Defends Light.

The fourth ward delegation rallied to the defense of the light and succeeded in having the measure tabled after several hot tilts in which Alderman William B. Hartsfield, chairman of the police committee, and Councilman John White, of the fourth, took stellar honors.

Mr. Hartsfield contended that many Atlantans are laboring under the impression that the police department "has something to do with Atlanta's traffic laws and their enforcement," despite the fact that the traffic committee, headed by Councilman Harry York, controls the situation.

He grew sarcastic and scathing in declaring that the light in question has been allowed to burn all night when it is not even at a street intersection, but merely at a side alley, and stated that many complaints have been registered on account of this.

Mr. White informed council that the switch controlling the light has been broken, but already has been mended and that the light will not be permitted to burn at night in the future.

Council Monday added another $3,000 to Atlanta's payroll for the year 1927 if Mayor Sims approves several papers passed by that body.

The largest single increase was that of the city marshal, Walter Harwell, from $2,700 annually to $3,600.

A score of employees of the construction department were included in other small wage hikes. Alderman Hartsfield, vice chairman of the finance committee of council, urged that all the papers be sent to that committee for consideration, but he was outvoted. He declared that the city next year will not be able to operate its departments and meet pay rolls if council goes on a wage increase " rampage."

Charges Liquor "Leakage."

Councilman John A. White, of the fourth, and Alderman Hartsfield, chairman of the police committee, were principals in another minor exchange of words, when Mr. White offered an ordinance designed to prevent what he termed "indiscriminate leakage of seized liquor."

The White paper provided that the chief of police or an assistant be given a key to a depository for confiscated beverages and that none of it be let out without a special order from the mayor, and that then it be used exclusively for hospital or other medicinal purposes. It was to become effective January 1.

Mr. Hartsfield contended that it was impracticable because the chief or the assistant chief could not be present all the time to do nothing but receive such liquor. He further contended that a custodian in charge at the present time and that everything is now being done to prevent just such leakages as the paper is directed against.

It was referred to the ordinance committee for consideration and report.

Mr. White intimated that there have been a number of leakages, but when challenged by Mr. Hartsfield to produce proof in order that proper action "may be taken against the guilty parties" he declined to make any further statement.

"I will argue the paper when it comes back to this body from the ordinance committee," was the retort of the author of the ordinance.

Non-Parking Area.

Spring street from Mitchell to Peters was made non-parking by vote of council, and the paper today will go to Mayor Walter A. Sims for his signature. This was done in the interest of expediting movement of traffic, it was explained.

Madison avenue, which originated at Mitchell street and ran into Whitehall, has been changed to Spring street in order to avoid confusion since it is regarded as a Spring street extension. It formerly was non-parking in the area, which council Monday ruled will be non-parking under the name of Spring street. When council changed the name of the street, it failed to make provisions for the non-parking strip. This caused the congestion.

Council approved expenditure of $10,872 from 1921 sewer bond funds, to extend the South Gordon and Stokes avenue trunk sewer from its present terminus at South Gordon to a location just north of Stokes avenue. The project will be begun shortly if the mayor approves the paper.

FALL IS FACING ANOTHER TRIAL

time during the trial. Their eyes followed Roberts as he moved about, never lifting up in his attack on Robinson.

Roberts tried to explode the defense contention that military considerations required the whole Doherty deal to be kept secret.

"When you build a battleship you advertise for bids, and everybody can see the ship being built, can't they?"

"Couldn't these large tanks be seen just as easily?"

"The tanks were readily visible."

"And it was utterly impossible to keep their existence secret?"

"Nobody wanted to."

"Was there any reason why the fact that they were being built should not have been made public?"

"No."

Asst. Labor.

"Contract labor at Pearl Harbor is largely Asiatic, isn't it?"

"Part of it is, I understand."

"And the naval base is surrounded by privately owned land?"

"Yes."

Roberts sought to leave the impression that the only reason for secrecy was to keep the facts from congress, which was jealous of its right to authorize naval construction projects. He led up to that after first showing that Robinson had misled his chief, Secretary Denby.

"What was the impelling motive with you in favoring the December 11 lease to Doherty?" Roberts asked.

"My impelling motive was the necessity of it to the national defense."

"So far as the drainage of the oil reserves was concerned, the leases could have waited until the approval of congress had been obtained?" Roberts suggested.

"Yes, sir."

After dropping the subject a few moments Roberts came back to it, and cited Robinson's testimony in the Los Angeles civil suit.

"Didn't you say then that you induced Secretary of the Navy Denby to sign the lease on the ground that the reserves were being drained by outside drilling, and that you could not have secured the consent of Denby without putting it on that ground?"

"That is correct, Denby wanted to keep the oil in the ground."

Denby had previously authorized Robinson to take charge of all matters and be his adviser and prepare letters and memoranda for his signature.

Three months after the second Doherty lease was signed, Congressman Kelly, of Michigan, now dead, then chairman of the naval affairs appropriations subcommittee, wrote Robinson asking what was in the leases. Robinson replied vaguely and omitted to state that the tanks were paid for by exchange of oil—the provision whose legality has been questioned. Then Congressman Sinnott, of Oregon wrote for information and Robinson told him even less than he told Kelly.

"Why?" asked Roberts, looking triumphantly toward the jury.

"I put in all the information I was authorized to."

"Was that because you had an agreement with Fall to keep the matter secret?"

"There was an agreement with Fall, but I also had orders from Secretary Denby not to tell."

Roberts' Admissions.

Roberts also extracted from Robinson the admissions that:

He never made any effort to obtain an appropriation from congress to construct the Pearl harbor tanks.

Despite the alleged pressure for speed because of the war scare the storage tanks could not be completed before 1924.

Many times Robinson pleaded bad memory. Roberts usually restored it by reading Robinson's testimony in the Los Angeles civil court to break the Doherty leases.

Roberts asked him if he knew that Doherty had given Fall $100,000 and had said he expected to make $100,000 profit out of the Hawaiian deals.

"No."

"If you had known it would you have done what you did?"

"If I had known everything I might have acted differently."

OLSON JURY ACCUSES MISSING FARM YOUTH

had heard Erdman's automobile drive to the house a few minutes after midnight of September 9 and that he had gone to Erdman subsequently and asked him to bring his daughter back to Robinson.

The farmer said that he had seen Erdman with a stranger at the dance. The dance he mentioned in the letter. Clara was to have been there, too. But she was not; she was at home.

Olson told a straightforward story of his daughter's leaving. "About 500 of his townsmen, also wearing overalls and sheepskin, listened to his recital."

Olson Unable to Remember.

He was nervous. He had difficulty remembering the names of his five daughters and three sons.

"I have decided the time for us is ripe to show action. Now we'll not leave for good but will go and get the ceremony over with and then come back in a week or so and let them know—if they don't know. Of course, we'll have to disappear, you know, so I thought we would skip. You'll have to coax your brother to take you down to Seneca to the dance September 9, and I will get you there. Then go to Hendrum, Minn., which is the same as Winona. Do not take any more clothes than what you wear as taking more will cause suspicion, but try to get as much cash as possible as that is necessary if you wish to make a pleasant trip out of it. I have some myself, of course."

"I will be at Seneca between 9 and wise in the ways of his children.

"I told him," he continued, "if the girl didn't turn up by Thursday, I'd have to get the sheriff after him. I had a letter from him two days later. Bill Caswen has the letter. In the letter Erdman said it was his business where the girl was. He said he might have told me a lie about sending her to St. Paul."

Warrant For Murder.

His firm conviction, based on his conversations with Erdman and the prophetic dream, resulted in his securing a warrant for the boy's arrest almost a week before the fact of murder was established.

Erdman is still missing. He disappeared in late September, leaving his classes at Gale college never to be seen again. Authorities throughout the midwest have seen his photograph and are searching for him.

There were a few nubbings. The district attorney asked pertinent questions—the girl's age, her schooling.

Later the letter was introduced. It was the sensation which the district attorney had so dramatically promised. Earl read the letter while the jurors fixed their gaze upon him.

Death Lure Letter.

The missive was unsigned but Alice Olson, Clara's sister, identified it as being in Erdman's handwriting. It read:

"Terryville, Wis., September 6, 1926. Dear Friend: I suppose you think me awfully neglectful, but I'm not. Been to the hospital for a while, and had a couple of operations.

"I have decided the time for us is ripe to show action. Now we'll not leave for good but will go and get the ceremony over with and then come back in a week or so and let them know—if they don't know. Of course, we'll have to disappear, you know, so I thought we would skip. You'll have to coax your brother to take you down to Seneca to the dance September 9, and I will get you there. Then go to Hendrum, Minn., which is the same as Winona. Do not take any more clothes than what you wear as taking more will cause suspicion, but try to get as much cash as possible as that is necessary if you wish to make a pleasant trip out of it. I have some myself, of course."

"I will be at Seneca between 9 and 10 o'clock and when you see me, leave the hall alone and walk up the street until I find you and remember that everything is on the Q. T., quite. Also write a note and leave it some place where it can be found in a day or so, and say that you are going away for a while but not to worry as you'll be back some day. But don't mention why you are going nor mention my name."

"If you can't come to the dance sneak out of the house about 12:30 and come towards the road. If I am not there keep on going until I meet you. Don't let anyone see you. I'll destroy this letter and all my other letters and act hard towards me to your folks."

"Do as I have asked you to do and everything will be O. K. If you don't your chance is 50-50. I'll make a scare hubby. Also if you wish to avoid disgrace do as I say and keep mum. See you the 9th."

"P. S.—Remember and do as I say."

Boy's Father Testifies.

Albert Olson, the well-to-do father of the youth, who refuses to believe his son is guilty of the crime, was the first witness.

He said he had lived here 40 years. Referring to the night of the murder, he said he had been out, but returned about 10 or 11 o'clock and did not find Erdman there. He said he thought Erdman had returned home about 1:15 a. m. September 10. It is between midnight and 1:15 that Clara is believed to have been murdered.

"I have not seen Erdman since September 12," he said. "I have had no letter from him since that time, no communication of any kind."

Asked regarding his son's finances, Albert Olson said the boy "had $20 I had sent him and some money he already had with him." Two checks, one for $25, the other for $15, were cashed by Erdman September 27.

Yes, he had met Christ Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Olson had talked with Christ about the disappearance. He admitted he suggested the matter be dropped and the affair "would clear itself up by Christmas time."

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must first cure the circulation, a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leouhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Jacobs' who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.—(adv.)

DAVISCOURT WINS RIGHT TO MEET JOE STECHER HERE

Defeats Vadalfi In Gruelling Match At City Auditorium

Jimmy Londos Fails To Appear To Wrestle Roller in Preliminary Battle—Daviscourt Gets Two Out of Three Falls—Vadalfi Wins Initial Tumble.

BY C. F. THOMPSON.

After 11 minutes and 46 seconds of concentrated roughing in which was thrown enough grunts to satisfy the customers and enough wrestling to satisfy the referee, Dick Daviscourt scored his second consecutive fall over the Italian of the checkered career, Oreste Vadalfi, Monday night at the city auditorium, thus qualifying himself for the doubtful honor of trying his lumber-jack tactics on Joe Stecher for the world's championship in Atlanta December 15.

However, Rough Richard's heritage of fighting as it is done among the members of the Foreign Legion under the descriptions of Percival Wren, has suffered a severe setback. Hereafter when wrestling fans of Atlanta want to watch a little rough work they must flock to the bouts in which Vadalfi is a principal. Though he scored the first fall and lost the next two along with the match, Vadalfi out-pointed Daviscourt by a dozen jabs, several stiff elbow smacks, and also held a wide margin in the vigorous head-muzzling practiced by the pair. Daviscourt, on the other hand, handled the versatile Italian a cauliflower nose in addition to a badly-thumbed eye.

After about 25 minutes of struggling in the first fall, the Italian turned the Californian into a highly spectacular flying janny, and with the successful application of three flying mares, pinned Richard's shoulders for the initial tumble. The whole episode took 28 minutes and 35 seconds and was more or less devoid of roughing. What there was of it, however, the Italian held the advantage.

As the second fall progressed, the two exponents of grunt became slightly rougher. Vadalfi was gaining a decided advantage in the forehead pounding and in the open hand jabbing. Daviscourt resorted to wrestling for a change and with a series of headlocks finally landed the Italian squarely. The fall occupied 48 minutes and 45 seconds.

Start Fighting.

The third set of each of the men resorting to the fundamentals of prize fighting quite frequently. More than once the Californian lifted his arms in a pugilistic attitude of defense. Vadalfi missed several flying mares, which Daviscourt eluded by hanging to the ropes while the customers booed themselves to the point of hysteria. The Californian finally clamped a headlock, and secured the fall.

Jimmy Londos, the popular Hellenic gentleman, for some reason failed to appear. Promoter John Contos was at a loss to explain his failure and showed several telegrams from Jimmy in which the Greek said he would be here on scheduled time. Sauer, the "Masked Mover," took on Jack Roller who may not be a New Yorker in the much discussed sense, but who hails from Manhattan anyway, having spotted him a dozen grunts and about twice that number of pounds.

Roller steam-rolled around with many a pounding stomp, during which it appeared he was making a strenuous effort to kick away the mat floor, but finally succumbed to a wrist and head lock, losing in 34 minutes and 22 seconds. Roller proved a crowd pleaser. He had an amusing way of making a woman's figure tattooed on the bicep of his arm do a Gilda Grey in perfect rhythm.

Pete Dallas Wins.

Pete Dallas won from Jack Ruble with an armlock in seven minutes and 50 seconds.

Pete Sauer extended a challenge to the winner of the Daviscourt-Vadalfi match, saying that he would prefer to meet Daviscourt. The latter, true to custom, refused to shake hands with Sauer but eventually offered the tips of several of his fingers.

ANNUAL MEET OF S. I. A. A. IN SLAGTOWN

Birmingham, Ala., December 6.—(AP) Athletic directors and coaches from all sections of the south will assemble here on Friday morning, December 10, for the annual meeting of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association, which numbers in its membership practically all of the smaller southern colleges.

Dr. J. W. Provine, president of the Mississippi college, will call the meeting to order at 9 o'clock. His annual address will be followed by a business session to discuss the policy of the association during the coming year and to take action on applications for membership from several schools.

Luncheon will be served at Birmingham Southern college. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins college, will be the principal speaker following the luncheon.

Saturday morning the delegates will be taken for an automobile ride over the city of Birmingham and its industrial suburbs with luncheon at Howard college. The final business session will be held Saturday afternoon.

The association will be guests of Birmingham Southern and Howard colleges at the meeting this year. Last year's meeting was held in Jackson, Miss., as the guest of Millsaps and Mississippi colleges.

1926 EPWORTH CAGE SEASON UNDER WAY

The Atlanta Epworth League Union Athletic association opened its regular season Monday night with four hard-fought games.

The Capital View boys defeated the St. Paul boys, 24 to 16. Both games showed good form, but Capital View had better team work.

The fastest game of the evening was played between the Wesley boys and the Grace team, the latter losing, 26 to 19. While both teams showed good teamwork, the lightning-like work of the Wesley boys proved too much for the Grace boys. Campbell and Moon were the outstanding stars for the Wesley boys and Sneed starred for the Grace boys.

In a fast and hard-fought game, the Wesley Memorial boys defeated the St. Johns girls by a score of 13 to 8. The Wesley Nurses are newcomers and from the result of their first game, they will in all probability give the other teams a hard run for the cup.

Playing a clean and fast game the Park Street Boys defeated the St. Johns Boys by a score of 26 to 25. Martin and Burton played best for the Park Street Boys, while Nix was the star for the St. Johns.

The Epworth League Union Athletic association will hold another meeting on December 15 for the purpose of electing four men from the representatives to serve on the executive committee for the coming season. The executive committee will be the "Judge Lands" of the league and decide all matters brought to its attention.

ing lost his final three-cushion billiard match to Gus Copulos, of Detroit, 600 to 532. Willie Hoppe, former balking champion, is seeking to regain his balking honors. Today he opens a 200-point match with Kinney Matsumura, national junior champion.

Six VAN HEUSEN COLLARS in a Charming Christmas Box

One of the most noteworthy things in connection with the gallery was the presence of several women and girls. Chief among these was Mrs. Walter P. Andrews, of Atlanta; Misses Mary Bell, Mary Brinson and Winnie Bates, the last three being debutantes of Waynesboro.

Funny Horses.

The horses, or rather mounts, were a sight to behold. There was the blooded saddle horse prancing beside the cavalry horse and the plain old "jug head" of the farm. It was our misfortune to draw a cavalry mount which had not been exercised for something over a week's time and the chances are good that we will not be able to exercise for that long at least. There was a bit of humor in the name of the horse, which was Charley. In the morning we had one charley horse. At this writing we have several. Such is life at the field trials. It is a great game and the principals are as thoroughbred as the dogs themselves. It is a game of thoroughbreds. As such it will live.

All-Age Open Stake To Be Finished Today

Waynesboro, Ga., December 6.—(AP)—Out of 23 of America's greatest dogs, four leading entries were selected to run in the finals of the all-age open stake Tuesday morning of the annual meeting of the Georgia Field Trials association being held here.

The four dogs named for the finals led the pack in Monday's races and were unanimously selected. Gray Mist, Saluda Jim, Oklahoma City Jack and Rockmanor Bob were the four entries picked for the finals to be run in the morning. Gray Mist led the pack here in the opening races held today. The other three also stood out in the performances today.

The day was clear and just cool enough to make the sport ideal and give zest to the dogs.

There are 21 entries in the open stake which will take place immediately after the finish of the open all age stake Tuesday morning. This event will last through Tuesday and probably all day Wednesday.

Followers of Trials.

The following are some of those who are following the dogs:

Ed Farrar, M. R. Frickette, C. H. Babcock, Scott Hudson, Henry Banks, C. H. Pope, J. A. Wilson, P. H. Powell, Imman Gray, Dick Gray, Bob Martin, C. C. Howard, J. E. Ray.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy will entertain the visitors Tuesday with a barbecue dinner on the course and the Rotary club will give a banquet at the Masonic hotel Tuesday night.

Riverside and Monroe A. and M. will meet on the gridiron to decide the 1926 A. A. championship. The game was decided at a meeting of the association Monday night at the Y. M. C. A.

The date and place of the game was left up to the two schools, and no agreement had been reached when the session ended at 12 o'clock Monday night. The game will very probably be played in either Gainesville or Tallahassee, Fla., at the place of the game will probably be made today. It is expected that the game will take place Friday or Saturday.

The decision of the association to uphold Arbitrator Stegeman's ruling, made last week, was finally reached after sessions had been made, tabled, and rescheduled, and much argument pro and con.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

Man's Best Friend At His Best.

Waynesboro, Ga., December 6.—Imagine, if you can, a band of nearly 400 riders skirting the edge of a scale in a park paradise—two rough-riding "handers" out in front directing the efforts of a brace of canine brutes with the heels of a whip and the brains of a man. Visualize this and you have a more or less definite idea of southern field trials as they are now in progress here.

The shrill sound of the handlers' whistles, the creaking of saddle leather, the subdued roar of 100 voices, all blended in a chaos of semi-silence. Cover the scene with an air of expectancy which reaches a climax with the call of "point" as a dog finds a covey and freezes, still as marble yet aquiver with emotion.

The trials have a thrill which is not to be equalled in any other field. There is all the expectancy of the hunt and without a kaleidoscopic change of scenery and actors which banishes any feeling of fatigue with the performance.

As each pair of dogs takes the field they leave the leash with a burst of speed which carries them out of sight around the first swale or bit of woods and the hunt is on. One must push his horse at top speed to reach the base of the hunt and then a period of waiting, as the dogs beat the undergrowth with a native intelligence which is almost uncanny. The call of "point" brings the riders pell mell to within a safe distance of the dog and then the big thrill of all. The handler flushes the birds and fires a pistol or gun to test the dog for staunchness. If the animal "breaks" as the birds flush or as the gun is fired, he is not "steady to wing and shot" and his chances as a winner are much reduced.

The field trial dog is as different from the ordinary "bird dog" as the race horse is from the carriage horse. The trial dogs are bred for "heels and brains," the object being to produce the greatest amount of range and yet not allow the speed to kill the "bird sense."

Watching a field dog in action causes one to marvel that the animal can keep up the furious pace for a half hour or an hour, much less for three hours, as they are required to do in the national trials. The dogs travel at a continual pace which would tax the fastest horse. If it were not for the fact that the dogs quarter the course continually the gallery would not be able to keep the dogs in sight.

The weather is not of the best at present for the trials because of the extreme drouth, which makes the birds hard to find unless a dog passes within a few feet of them. During today there were but three coveys of birds found by the dogs, though birds are so plentiful that at least four more coveys were flushed by the members of the gallery.

The fact that the dogs missed these birds was probably due to the fact that the scent is exceptionally dim when the weather is hot and the ground dry. A bit of rain would help the trials immensely, from the standpoint of the spectators.

The object of the trials is to select dogs for breeding purposes and it was explained to us by Charles Babcock, perhaps the best handler in the country, that the best combination is to combine heels on one side with brains on the other side. With this in view the value of the trials was demonstrated today.

Gray Mist found two of the three coveys pointed by dogs during the day, but her range and form was not as good as that of some others. She exhibited the brains and some other dogs showed more heels.

Plenty of Amusement.

So much for the dogs themselves. The gallery afforded much amusement and much of interest. The spectators represent every strata of society (if such there are in America) from the "dissatisfied cropper" to the millionaire. They came to the trials in limousines and they came astride of decrepit mules but they rode stirrup to stirrup discussing this or that dog and making predictions for the morrow.

One of the most noteworthy things in connection with the gallery was the presence of several women and girls. Chief among these was Mrs. Walter P. Andrews, of Atlanta; Misses Mary Bell, Mary Brinson and Winnie Bates, the last three being debutantes of Waynesboro.

Funny Horses.

WALK MILLER'S REQUEST MAY BE GRANTED

Chicago, December 6.—(AP)—The Illinois state athletic commission, at its regular meeting tomorrow afternoon, may pass upon a request of Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, for a reversal of Referee Benny Yanger's decision which transferred the middleweight championship to Mickey Walker after a 10-round contest at the Coliseum last Friday night.

Opinion was divided tonight on the possibilities of a reversal. The impression prevailed that the commission would not act favorably on Miller's suggestion and would consider the case closed. Legal authorities said the commission had no power to reverse a decision unless evidence of a frame-up is brought forth. These authorities also said that nothing could be found in the law giving the commission authority to reverse the decision of the referee, also nothing could be found by which a manager of a boxer could protest a decision.

Favors Reversal.

John C. Rieheimer, chairman of the commission, would issue no formal statement today and Paul Frohn, another of the commissioners, who was said to favor a reversal, was out of the city. It is expected that Rieheimer would endeavor to persuade the commission to reverse the decision of the referee, also nothing could be found by which a manager of a boxer could protest a decision.

Officials Book Ten Games for Next Year; L. S. U. Added to List

V. M. I. Will Pry Lid Off 1927 Season With Jackets in Place of Oglethorpe—Georgia Will Be Played Third of December in Last Game of Year.

BY CARTER BARRON.

A complete change in Georgia Tech's 1927 football schedule has been made, giving the Yellow Jackets ten games and rearranging dates of two games—the Georgia and Oglethorpe tilts.

This was made known at Georgia Tech Monday afternoon following the completion of the schedules of other conference teams which the Jackets will meet next season.

The Georgia Tech-University of Georgia battle, one of the outstanding games on the Jackets' schedule originally scheduled for November 12, was changed to December 3 and the Oglethorpe tilt, opening game of the season, was dated for November 19.

L. S. U. was selected as the tenth team to fill out the schedule for Tech. This team will play the Jackets on November 12, one game before the Turkey day clash.

V. M. I. will pry the lid of the 1927 football season in Atlanta, playing the Jackets, October 1, in place of the Oglethorpe Petrels, who have played the opening game with the Golden Tornado for many seasons.

The Jackets have one of the hardest schedules of any team in the conference, meeting Notre Dame, Alabama, Vanderbilt, L. S. U., Auburn and Georgia in that order during the month of November.

Play Eight S. C. Games.

According to the schedule of the University of Georgia, the red and black warriors will have much easier sailing than the Jackets would have in their first schedule.

Out of the 10 games arranged for next season the Jackets will meet eight southern conference teams, having one interconference game and one non-conference tilt.

Following is the new 1927 schedule arranged for Georgia Tech:

October 1—V. M. I. at Grant field. October 8—University of North Carolina, at Grant field. October 15—Tulane at Grant field. October 22—Alabama at Grant field.

October 29—Notre Dame at Grant field. November 5—Vanderbilt at Nashville. November 12—L. S. U., at Grant field. November 19—Oglethorpe at Grant field. November 24—Auburn at Grant field. December 3—Georgia at Grant field.

It was rumored that the change in the schedule was due to the scheduling of light games by the conference teams playing the Jackets during the month of November in which the Tech boys stand five of the toughest teams in the Southern conference. As the schedule stands now the Jackets will have light games mixed in with heavy ones and thereby lessen the burden on the players.

It was agreed to play the Georgia Bulldogs December 3, providing they scheduled heavy games previous to this date, as the Jackets had done. After the Georgia schedule had been completed, it was considered that the

$750,000 PAVING PROJECT IS URGED

Piedmont avenue and Piedmont road will be made a 60-foot boulevard from the Chattahoochee river to the state capital, if Fulton county carries out a proposal which council Monday afternoon voted to refer to it.

The project, one of the largest paving and widening proposals ever suggested in Fulton county, would cost approximately $750,000, and would provide a great traffic artery from the very heart of Atlanta through one of the most thickly populated districts in the county.

It was stated that the commissioners already have pledged to do everything possible in furtherance of the plan, and the matter probably will be taken officially before it at the next meeting of that body.

Property owners will be asked to join in the move and deed to the city and county sufficient frontage along the route to assure the widening and resurfacing of sidewalks.

Another street-widening project received the attention of council Monday when that body voted to attend in a body a special meeting of the Luckie Street Widening association at Luckie Street school at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night.

This proposal calls for the widening of Luckie street from Bartow to North avenue into a 70-foot boulevard, making a direct route from the center of the downtown to Peachtree Creek Memorial park and thence to Roswell. This improvement would cost approximately $250,000.

Amusements

The Howard.

A very light and spry sort of comedy by name "The Popular Sin," is occupying the screen at the Howard theater this week. It is a film composed of marriage and divorce, in beautiful amounts. The moral is that a man can love only one woman—that is, one at a time—successfully.

The characters are married and divorced with the utmost goodwill, only to re-divorce and to re-marry, and by the time the picture has finished, it is a task for the statistician to determine the total number of marital separations and unions. In the first place it is that type of farce particularly known as "French and hence, we have disposed of the story at once.

Florence Vidor is cast in the principal role, as the lady who marries, divorces, marries, divorces, re-marries, and so on to infinity. Clive Brook is featured as the idealist author, whose opinions regarding marriage were no doubt slightly altered at the end of the picture. Greta Sissen as "La Blanchette" gives a restrained performance. And Renner is restricted to almost a "guest" and consequently the picture suffers. Marion Ivy Harris is also billed as a "guest," but she probably never arrived—at any rate she didn't get married or divorced.

"Lovers in Porcelain" an Anderson production brought spontaneous applause Monday night with its scenery and costumes. Ruth Urban offers several songs. "Pique Dame," by Von Suppe is the overture while Melvin Udlen sings for a "Birdseye view of the old Kentucky home" at the Wurlitzer.

ELMO HAMBY.

The Metropolitan.

"Paradise" and a place for Milton Sills to make love. This feature attraction is showing this week at the Metropolitan after a sensational run on Broadway and it's a treat.

Costarring with Milton Sills is Betty Bronson in an altogether different role from what she has attempted before, and she is fine. The colorful romance which is the base of the story has part of its scenes from England and part from the South Sea islands. Miss Bronson, who achieved much fame in "Peter Pan," takes a serious role in the new picture. From a downcast dancer she turns to desperate love with the son of a rich father, who after the limit is reached by a daring airplane smash-up, disinherit his son.

If any criticism could be offered for the picture, it would be that that part of the program generally known as the prologue of the picture, is extended too long. But even then it relieves the monotony for it is all a part of the real story and seems to be necessary.

Riches Bequeathed Woman

$1,500,000 TO GO TO WINNING MOTHER
With Most Children in 1936

Toronto, Ont., December 6.—The woman who gives birth in Toronto to the most children within the next 10 years is to receive the $1,500,000 estate of Charles Millar.

The millionaire sportsman's will, making this strange bequest, has been accepted for probate by the surrogate's court here.

Millar, who died last month, had a reputation as a practical joker, but a thorough investigation convinced his executors that the will which will provide so lavishly the most prolific Toronto mother was genuine.

In addition, Millar left brewery and race track stock to Protestant ministers of Toronto and $10,000 to a man "who lost that sum in a business transaction with me."

A bachelor, lawyer, wit, and owner of race horses, Millar thus provided for disposition of the residue of his estate.

"All the rest and residue of my property I reserve, I give, I devise and bequeath unto my executors and trustees named below in trust to convert into money as they deem advisable and invest all the money until the expiration of nine years from my death and then call in and convert it all into money and give it to give it to the accumulation to the mother who has, since my death, given birth in Toronto to the greatest number of children as shown by the registrations under the vital statistics act."

Other sections of the will bequeathed: "To A. L. Gourley, of the J. J. McLaughlin company, Toronto, I give $10,000 as he lost approximately that sum in a business transaction with me."

"To each duly ordained minister of a Christian church (except one Spracklin) resident at the time of my death in the towns of Waverlyville and Sandwich and the City of Windsor and earning an annual salary exceeding the Scripture to sinners there, I give one share in the Kenilworth Jockey club."

"To each Protestant minister exercising his clerical functions at an annual salary and resident in Toronto at the time of my death, and to each Orange lodge in Toronto, I give one share of the O'Keefe Brewery company of Toronto, Ltd."

showplace, the majority of the people have taken that excellent advice.

Palace Theater.

Lon Chaney thrills Palace audiences today for the last performance of his greatest picture, "The Road to Mandalay." The great character star reaches supreme emotional heights in this photoplay in which he depicts the picturesque one-eyed king of the orient's criminal world. It is a great picture filled with thrills and tense with story interest.

Tudor Theater.

Showing now at the Tudor theater is a strong story of the border country, of smugglers, and of a man who braved all dangers in an effort to stop them, "The Fighting Edge." The story deals mainly with a young man, half Spanish, half Irish, combining the daring of both races, who faced the smugglers in their own den and came out with a woman they had captured there.

Italy To Tax Its Bachelors After Jan. 1

Rome, December 6.—Italy's bachelors will have to pay for their freedom from matrimonial responsibilities after the first of the year. Her spinsters, however, will not be penalized for their unmarried state.

Premier Mussolini's cabinet, which handled an enormous amount of work today, from the creation of 17 new provinces to a report on recent border demonstrations, instituted tax on male celibacy on the suggestion of the premier in furtherance of his campaign against birth control, which he initiated eight months ago with declaration that "Italy is a prolific nation and intends to remain prolific."

The measure, which was approved by the cabinet as a decree law to become effective January 1, 1927, provides an annual tax on a progressive scale for men between the ages of 25 and 45 who abstain from marrying.

Spinsters were excluded from the penalization of singleness because, as the premier stated, "the failure to contract matrimony means, not depend on the desires of women."

The money raised by the tax will be used by the national organization for protection of maternity and infancy, which cares for 30,000 indigent women and 20,000 needy children.

Complete orderliness reigns throughout Italy, Premier Mussolini told the cabinet, reporting, as ministers of the interior, on incidents which occurred after the Bologna attempt on his life on October 31. The reprisals, which were directed only at a few provinces, were caused by irresponsible trouble-makers and agents provocateur, the premier said. These persons have been expelled from the ranks of fascists.

"The demonstrations against foreign consulates—disgraceful remnants of the petty old Italy, which I shall check at any time—were infinitely stupid and reprehensible," he declared, "those against Catholic property and personages," declared the premier in discussing the demonstrations which occurred after the attempted assassination.

From Albany the commission will go to Selma, Ala.; Hattiesburg, Miss., and Marietta, Tenn., to inspect properties near those places.

Secretary Work. It was stated, however, that the sound judgment that the unpeopled and neglected fertile lands in the southern states offer a field for reclamation to increase productivity second to none in the continental area. For that reason he strongly urged the recent appropriation by congress of $100,000 for the investigation of those lands in the south and expert reports suggesting what should be done to colonize and redeem them through direct, team-working settlers who really "want to be farmers."

It was stated here today that with the cooperation of southern states six typical areas have been selected in different sections of the south to be studied with the view of developing a comprehensive and definite federal policy to be submitted to congress.

These areas are in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. The areas in Georgia are intended to be those in the vicinity of Albany, in southern Georgia.

The funds for this preliminary survey are $15,000 to cover the travel and subsistence expenses of the commissioners, who are volunteers, and the necessary accompanying experts of the department.

To Settle Land. Members of the commission pointed out here today that there are now in this country millions upon millions of high, dry, fertile lands that are unoccupied and that only need settlement and intelligent cultivation to become as productive and valuable as any of the reclaimed and irrigated lands of the west, or as the best prairie lands of the midwest and northwest.

The main end to be attained is a social and cultural one: to settle these new regions with aboriginal farmers and their families, organize them into community cooperation, and establish them as colonies doing team-work in the same effective and profitable way that the industrial communities are carried on.

Curiosity Leads To Valuable Discovery

Away back in 1970—exactly two hundred and fifty years ago—an English physician's curiosity led to a discovery which should be of particular interest to every human being.

His attention was drawn to the wonderful effect and results produced by drinking the water of a certain spring in that country, the properties and action of which he traced to the presence of a mineral salt known as sulphate of magnesia, which it was observed possessed remarkable powers of attraction for water; in so far that, when enclosed in a bladder and submerged, water passed through the membrane into the bladder.

In the human system its action was found to be identical. Water and superfluous fluids are drawn from the organism into the bowels, thereby increasing their peculiar worm-like action enough to induce a prompt elimination of all the stagnant waste matter which frequently accumulates (even though the bowels move regularly) and whose presence invariably causes a heavy, sluggish, nervous feeling and lack of energy.

It can be seen from the above that sulphate of magnesia is more physical in its action than chemical and is therefore not absorbed to any extent. For this reason alone it is regarded by physicians as the most valuable of all internal cleansing agents.

This substance in complexed molecular form, constitutes the principal active ingredient of "Magnez," a safe, prompt and efficient preparation for eliminating body wastes and the relief of constipation without unpleasant after-effects, embarrassment or interference with daily business and social activities.

Insist on "Magnez." At all drug stores, 60c and 25c. Get a bottle today.—(adv.)

James H. Therrell presided as toastmaster. He introduced the speakers, and told some of the history of the fraternity.

BOYS' HI PLAYERS REGISTER SUCCESS IN CLEVER COMEDY

Boys' High players Monday night presented, "The Whole Town's Talking," before a crowd which packed the auditorium at the Woman's club to capacity. Adroitly skirting the pitfalls which beset less favored amateur offerings, the boys handled Anita Loos' racy dialogue with a glib ability that "put across" every wise crack.

And the crowd laughed—not a series of quickers, behind polite programs, but openly and loudly, backing their mirth with applause.

Henry Kingdon made a most convincing heroine, demanding worldly wisdom in a lover. Her father—aptly played by Richard Clark—equipped his business partner with a past and a red necktie and backed him against

Tipica Orchestra To Play Native Mexican Airs Tonight

This morning, when you come to town, notice the brilliant spot of color at the corner of Peachtree and Ellis streets. It is a genuine Mexican zarape, one of the woven sunshine wraps that the native Mexican weavers draped across his shoulder, an example of the finest weaving the North American continent has given to the world, superior even to the famed blankets of the Navajo Indians.

The zarape is shown as part of an exhibit of native Mexican handicrafts brought here in connection with the concert, to be given tonight at the city auditorium, by the National Orchestra of Mexico, the Tipica orchestra. This group of musicians, 35 in number, luring melody which is peculiar to the Spanish races, and which has been developed along original lines in the republic below the Rio Grande.

In addition to the orchestral music, the concert tonight will include solos by Samuel Pedraza, the famous Mexican tenor; Arthur Mondragon, baritone, described as the "handsomest man in Mexico," a magnificent male quartet, a marimba sextet and other famous instrumentalists.

The instruments upon which the Mexicans play are, many of them, strange to American ears. The basis for the harmony is, of course, the violin group. Added to this, however, are such weird music producers as the marimbas, zithers, salterios, guiros and other instruments peculiar to Mexico.

Governor Clifford Walker, who has frequently stated that his favorite piece of music is "La Paloma," will attend the concert, occupying a stage box. In view of this, Conductor Briso has agreed to feature the playing of the famous Spanish song. Other numbers include such national airs as "La Golondrina," "Marquesas," "Chiquita," etc. The orchestra also plays classic numbers and one New York critic declared, after hearing them give Liszt's second "Hungarian Rhapsody," that they brought out the real meaning of this composition better than any other musicians he had ever heard. The number is on the program tonight.

The seat sale is being held at Phillips & Crew Piano company, where the zarape and other Mexican handicrafts are on display, at the corner of Peachtree and Ellis. The box office will be maintained here all day until 5 o'clock, when it will be removed to the auditorium, to remain open until the hour of the performance, 8:30. Due to the great size of the auditorium there are still many excellent seats available.

MUSIC, ROMANCE BLEND IN BILL AT LOEW'S GRAND

Colorful music, beautiful scenic effects, gorgeous costumes and heart-stirring romance are blended happily on the new program offered Monday at Loew's Grand theater, where "The Revue Fantasy" is the headline attraction on the vaudeville bill and "Barlelys, the Magnificent," is the feature picture production.

In "The Revue Fantasy" some marvelous dancing is presented, including a "top spinning" step by a nimble young man, which is one of the best things in dancing ever seen in Atlanta. A mixed quartet sings some pretty songs effectively. The entire act is lavishly staged with wonderful lighting effects and in color and beauty is one of the best seen here this season.

Helene "Smiles" Davis is back again on the new bill, assisted by Earl Nelson in a hodge-podge of variety, which includes a little bit of everything that entertains. McDevitt, Kelly & Quinn appear in a comedy skit, "The Piano Movers and the Actress," which is also brimful of variety. The two men present a funny eccentric dance. Rose O'Hara, with a clear, sweet voice, sings a program of song numbers with much artistic finish. The bill is opened by the Powers Duo in a daring perch act, which won popular favor.

"Barlelys, the Magnificent," with John Gilbert in the leading role, is a real "super-picture," and is full of life and action. It is a romance of the days of 300 years ago with lots of sword play and a dashing love theme which holds the interest. It is easily one of the most notable productions of the present season.

PAUL STEVENSON.

EXQUISITE LOVE STORY IN NEWEST PLAY AT FORSYTH

A big and fine-tuned crowd alternately thrilled and chuckled last night through a most exquisite love story at the premiere of "Grounds for Divorce," at the Forsyth. It is a much lovelier plot than the title suggests and last night it was decidedly better played than the usual first night stock performance.

To give honors where honors are due is to sprinkle them generously and without stint, and fairly evenly among those of the Forsyth players who appeared in Charles Frohman's Broadway success.

The leading woman and the leading man, Jeanne Devereaux and Jaques Doots, struck a finer note in their playing last night than in any of their previous excellent performances, which, for the benefit of those not as familiar as the writer, have been everything that could be expected by the most critical.

Mr. Coots, as the over-egregious divorce lawyer whose work meant so much that he forgot his second wedding anniversary, plays with a naturalness that almost makes one forget the play is all make-believe.

Miss Devereaux, as the patient, loving, comforting wife to minister to his needs and make excuses at every turn for the too-much-business-like husband, teaches him a lesson and incidentally gives a pleasing color to the old fashioned, rich, pure love that keeps the world going round.

Gus Forbes, as a friend of the parties concerned, Rhea Dingley as the girl whose marriage was stopped just short of the altar, Mulvey as the law partner, Alan Devitt as the fiery, ardent Italian lover and sir ace, all are splendid. Eugenia Dubois and Theodosia Shaler in minor roles are very good.

KEITH'S GEORGIA OFFERS BEST BILL SINCE FIRST WEEK

Out of five vaudeville acts, a feature picture, a short subject or two, a news reel and a demonstration of the biggest and loudest Victrola—an orthophonic—ever manufactured, Keith's Georgia theater this week presents a bill that is about the best entertainment provided yet at that newest of Atlanta amusement palaces. It is undoubtedly a better bill than any shown since the opening week and is at least as good as that peacemaker and, possibly, a little better.

Giving headline honors where they are due, the feature film entitled, "You'd Be Surprised," starring Raymond Griffith, lives up to its name. For what the movies give us delicious sophisticated satire such as this, anyone who has suffered under some movie "comedies" of the most distant past, is due to be surprised.

Oliver Naylor's band of Syncopating Collegians is the headline vaudeville attraction, playing modern jazz as Paul Whitman, Kahn and others have taught us it ought to be played. Jack (Rube) Clifford provides continuous laughter in his famous characterization of the small-town sheriff. Tommy Kelly and a quartet of attractive girls get over big with a singing and dancing playlet called "The Wife Hunter."

A special paragraph must be given the "Le Grohs." This trio, two men and a girl, offer something entirely new in hand-walking. The Orthophonic Victrola is fully described elsewhere in this paper and it is sufficient, here, to induct that story.

Emory Debate Season Opens Tonight as Teams Meets Alabama College

Emory University, Ga., December 6. (Special).—Emory university debate program will open Tuesday when Emory meets the University of Alabama at Tusculum to uphold the negative side of "Resolved, That the United States Should Cancel All European War Debts." The Emory team will be composed of David Luckmiller and R. D. McDuffie, while Warren Cox and Glenn Rainey will stay at home to argue with the negative team coming from Alabama.

Luckmiller and Cox recently went up against the Oxford university team when Emory emerged with the majority vote of the audience as a decision. McDuffie has debated against Duke university, against University of Mississippi, S. M. U. and Wake Forest. Rainey was the protagonist of the coal question last year against Wake Forest college and he has spoken against S. M. U.

A number of debates are planned to follow Emory's official December opening. Two proposed trips will carry Emory teams well into the environs of the west, and then into the east. One of these will include Louisiana State university, Baylor, Abilene college, Southern Methodist university, Tulane and the University of Mississippi, all of which have been signed for debates.

The eastern trip, if made, will include the University of North Carolina, Randolph-Macon, Duke, and probably Washington and Lee.

Other debates are scheduled with the University of Tennessee, Florida and Furman.

POSTAL SAVINGS CHANGE SOUGHT

Washington, December 6.—(AP)—Postmaster General Harry S. New believes that the statutory limit on postal savings accounts should be increased from $2,500 to $5,000.

In a recommendation to congress to this effect as chairman of the board of trustees of the postal savings system, he said many regular depositors who have reached the present limit since the service was begun 15 years ago would continue to utilize it if the amount which could be accepted were substantially increased.

Postal savings deposits amounted to $134,178,558 at the end of the last fiscal year, he reported, this total representing an increase of $2,005,347 during the year. The funds were held for the postoffice department in 3,694 banks of which 2,557 were national banks, 492 were banks which were members of the federal reserve system, 553 non-member state banks and two state-supervised private banks.

Women Dispose

Of this new hygienic
pad as easily as tissue
—no laundry

COUNTLESS women have discarded old-time "sanitary" pads for a new and better way.

A way that offers far greater protection. A way, too, that banishes the old-time problem of disposal. Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents. Proves old ways a needless risk. In fairness to yourself, try it.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

George Washington

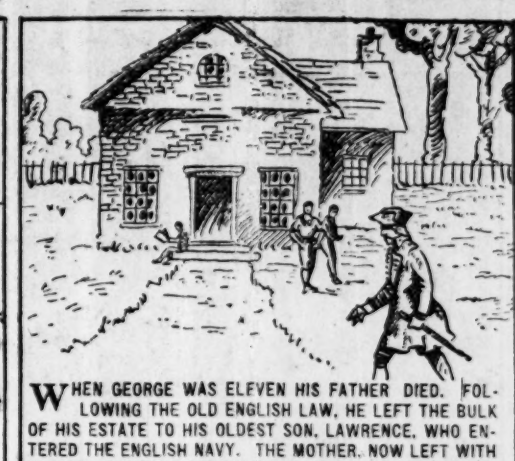

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING,
NOTED HISTORIAN

SCHOOLS WERE FEW AND FAR BETWEEN IN THE RUDE FRONTIER WHERE WASHINGTON SPENT HIS BOYHOOD. HIS FATHER, ON A RETURN TRIP FROM ENGLAND, BROUGHT WITH HIM A MAN NAMED HOBBS, WHO, IN A LITTLE HUT SET ASIDE AS A SCHOOLHOUSE, TAUGHT GEORGE TO READ, WRITE AND FIGURE, BUT AT BEST THIS EDUCATION WAS VERY ELEMENTARY.

AT HOBBS'S SCHOOL, THE BOYS SOMETIMES PLAYED AT WAR, HIDING BEHIND TREES, THROWING SNOWBALLS, CAPTURING AND MOCK-SCALPING EACH OTHER. ONE DAY A STOUT LAD NAMED WILLIAM BUSTLE COMMANDED THE "INDIANS," WHILE GEORGE LED THE "FRONTIERSMEN." SUDDENLY GEORGE WAS STRUCK BY A SNOWBALL, WITHIN WHICH ONE OF THE "INDIANS" HAD CONCEALED A STONE. GEORGE WAS ENRAGED BY SUCH TACTICS AND, DISCOVERING THAT WILLIAM BUSTLE HAD THROWN THE STONE-LADEN SNOWBALL, CHARGED HIM WITH IT. A HAND-TO-HAND FIGHT ENDED, SURROUNDED BY THEIR RESPECTIVE "ARMIES." THE TWO COMMANDERS FOUGHT IT OUT. GEORGE FINALLY GOT WILLIAM DOWN AND BEAT HIM UNMERCIFULLY. HIS TEMPER WAS SO VIOLENT THAT HE DID NOT DESIST EVEN WHEN HIS ENEMY CRIED OUT "ENOUGH," AND THE OTHER BOYS HAD TO PULL HIM OFF. THIS FIERCE TEMPER WAS CHARACTERISTIC OF WASHINGTON AS A BOY AND AS A MAN, THOUGH IN LATER YEARS HE MASTERED IT.

WHEN GEORGE WAS ELEVEN HIS FATHER DIED. FOLLOWING THE OLD ENGLISH LAW, HE LEFT THE BULK OF HIS ESTATE TO HIS OLDEST SON, LAWRENCE, WHO ENTERED THE ENGLISH NAVY. THE MOTHER, NOW LEFT WITH THE RESPONSIBILITY OF RUNNING THE PLANTATION, LEANED MORE AND MORE UPON GEORGE, AND UNDER THIS RESPONSIBILITY HE MATURED RAPIDLY. FEELING THAT HE HAD BEEN PRACTICALLY DISHERITED, HIS MOTHER SENT HIM TO MARYE ACADEMY FOR TWO YEARS, WHERE HE ACQUIRED THE RUDIMENTS OF AN EDUCATION, PARTICULARLY IN ARITHMETIC, SURVEYING, DRAWING, PENMANSHIP AND THE COURTELY ETIQUETTE OF THE DAY.

Philadelphia, and Dalton J. V. Snyder, of Detroit.

The Georgia chapter will entertain the directors on the third day of the meeting. Plans call for a trip to Stone Mountain followed by luncheon at East Lake, an afternoon tour touching on local points of interest, terminated by a formal dinner at the Piedmont Driving Club. A previous meeting of the institute's directors was held in Atlanta in 1914, and members of the Georgia chapter are looking forward with pleasure to their second gathering here.

MRS. M'PHERSON BEING DESERTED BY LIEUTENANTS

Los Angeles, December 6.—(AP)—Withdrawal from Angelus Temple of leaders of branch congregations at Hermosa Beach and Venice, beach towns, today prompted charges by Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of the temple, that the two leaders have abandoned her.

Mrs. Alice A. Frank withdrew with part of her congregation at Venice last week and Mrs. Irene Hillstrom forwarded her resignation from Hermosa Beach yesterday. Mrs. Frank announced the establishment of a new church at Venice, designated as "Victory Church No. 1," and said she was in communication with other branch congregations of Angelus Temple in Southern California.

Both of the branch leaders said they no longer could submit to "dictatorial rules" laid down by Mrs. McPherson, mother of the Angelus Temple evangelist.

Mrs. McPherson and her mother are awaiting trial charges of criminal conspiracy growing out of alleged attempts to manufacture false evidence in support of the evangelist's story that she was kidnapped last May.

An investigation of 35,000 rural fires in Iowa showed that 86 per cent of the loss could have been prevented by reasonable precautions.

Gasoline Price Cut Three Cents In Nashville War

Nashville, Tenn., December 6.—(AP)—A drop of three cents a gallon to-morrow morning in the price of gasoline is expected to be the signal for the hither gas war of recent months.

The drop was announced by a local company this morning after a conference between Governor Austin Peay and Ed Polk, president of the company.

Both the governor and officials of the Standard Oil company with whom he held a conference for four hours yesterday, refused to make statements on the meeting.

Gasoline has been selling for 24 cents a gallon in Nashville for some months.

ONLY GOT $4,000 SALM SAYS, ASKING CUSTODY OF SON

New York, December 6.—Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten's latest attempt to rescue something from the wreckage of his romance with Millicent Rogers, $40,000,000 heiress, will be aired before Justice Aaron Levy in supreme court Tuesday.

The count wants a decree of separation, the custody of Peter, his infant son, and vindication of the charge that he was a vulgar fortune hunter.

The Salm, he says, were never vulgar. Count Salm wants to tell of his entire romance with Millicent, his wooing, her response and her love for him, to prove that theirs was a love match, wrecked by paternal influence.

In an affidavit, Salm says he has received only $4,000 of the Rogers fortune, thus far. The countess left him last year.

LAW OBSERVANCE STRESSED BY JUDGE TO DEKALB JURY

Decatur, Ga., December 6.—(Special.)—Observance of the Sunday closing act and enforcement of the prohibition law were stressed by Judge John B. Hutcherson of the Stone Mountain circuit in his charge to the DeKalb county grand jury here Monday.

Closing of all business houses during certain hours on Sunday was recently put into effect throughout the county.

"It is a violation of law for any person to operate his business on Sunday and he should be punished as for a misdemeanor," he said.

"If there is any man on this jury who does not think the law should be enforced, and who does not think it can be enforced, it is his duty to express himself in the matter and I shall gladly excuse him from jury duty," Judge Hutcherson continued.

"Another law that is continuously violated is the prohibition law and it also is one that should be strictly enforced. It is the duty of the grand jury to indict any person with evidence against him for violating that law," he said.

COLUMBUS MAN DIES AFTER ALTERCATION

Columbus, Ga., December 6.—(AP)—Will Heath, 29, who was alleged to have been shot four times last Wednesday night by Fred Schrimphire, 29, died this morning at the city hospital as a result of wounds received in an encounter.

Schrimphire has been in the city jail since the affair awaiting the outcome of Heath's wounds.

Orthophonic Victrola Gives Increased Volume, Same Tone

It would have no place in a three-room apartment—not even an eight-room apartment—but for the great open spaces or anything like them, the Orthophonic Victrola at Keith's Georgia theater is week is JUST the thing you've been looking for.

As an added attraction, this greatest of talking machines is being played on the stage. It doesn't look anything like the one in the parlor, and it is played behind a screen, where you can't see it. But there's no difficulty about hearing it.

Are you asking if it plays loud? Four times as loud as Sousa's band or louder. Playing loud is its specialty and that's what is so interesting about it. The machine can be "stepped up," as its manager expressed it, until it actually does play four times as loud as the famous band. By the same token, or, rather, the same adjustment, it can be brought downstairs until it merely whispers.

This hapa of all Orthophonies was on exhibit at the semi-centennial at Philadelphia, and was used to entertain two or three hundred thousand people at once in the great stadium. It is brought here from Jacksonville, where it went from the exposition.

One of the most remarkable features of the Victrola is that, in spite of the great multiplication of volume there is no distortion of tone. The notes come clear and in their natural state, with the exception, of course, of added volume.

An ordinary stock record is used. They play "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," sung by a chorus of a thousand voices. In the reproduction there isn't

For the world's largest creamery—as for you

Five years ago the Hanford Produce Company—owner of the World's Largest Creamery—bought their first Speed Wagon.

They saw how low were the operating costs, how sturdily the Speed Wagon stood up under severe tests, how surely it covered the ground in collecting and delivering—and they ordered three more. Now Hanford is standardizing on Reo equipment.

Last Fall they added one more Speed Wagon, drove it for four months and ordered ten more—sturdy Sixes all of them. When they needed cars for their representatives, three Reo Coupes and a Reo Sedan were purchased.

Reos give wings to Hanford products and Hanford men. And every one of these eighteen Reos is delivering reliable, economical service—day in and day out.

What Reos have done and are doing for Hanford, they will do for your business. Figure with us how to meet your needs.

New York, December 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—The market for the call money rate was 5 1/2 per cent, reflecting a temporary drain on funds to repair the deficit in the reserve of bond banks and to prepare for the mid-month settlements, curbed activity in the bond market today but failed to depress prices.

Fluctuations in bonds of the local traction companies aroused the unusual interest following the publication of reports that interests affiliated with the Brooklyn-Manhattan company had obtained control of the other systems.

The plan of the Brooklyn-Manhattan company was to acquire the other systems by a series of purchases, but the plan was abandoned because of the financial difficulties of the company.

Railroad bonds made a satisfactory showing although most of the gains were limited to fractions. New York Central, Pennsylvania, Erie, Norfolk Southern issues were active and higher.

Selling within fractions of the year's price, the strongest obligations were among the Polish obligations, with the foreign division, French and Belgian bonds headed upward at the start but later encountered a general decline.

Forced prices fractionally lower. Trading in German issues was quiet with interest centered on prospects for new financing.

The $100,000 bond issue was said to be under negotiation for the United Industrial corporation which placed a public offering will be made tomorrow of $100,000,000 North Carolina 4 1/4 per cent bonds at prices to yield 4 1/2 per cent.

The Day in Finance

By R. L. BARNUM

New York, December 6.—With the New York clearing house banks showing a deficit of $45,000,000, the largest of the year against a surplus of $18,000,000 a week ago and $30,000,000 two weeks ago and consequently the banks here calling $30,000,000 loans to noon, the stock market was full of cross currents, heavy selling occurring in leaders in last week's market while new highs were being made in new leaders.

Call money renewed at 4-1/2 but as a result of the bank deficit the rate advanced to 5 by noon. Wall street figures that a very large part of the heavy December 1 interest and dividend disbursements last Wednesday were not redeposited in time to be included in the week-end bank statement that showed a deficit of $45,000,000. It is believed that this interest and dividend money will be redeposited this week, causing easier money and a favorable week-end bank statement.

No Strain on Money. Aside from heavy month-end requirements there is no strain on the money market and the great amount of accumulated wealth in the country continues to be the outstanding feature of the bond and stock markets. So far it has been generally supposed that Wall Street operators such as Durant, Whelan, Livermore were entirely responsible for the activity in the stock market based on accumulation of idle funds. Recent disclosures, however, in connection with the activity in Baldwin shows that Chicago has its stock market plunger. Wall street knows of others in Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and elsewhere.

If Wall street is right in its estimates of Wednesday's final government cotton report will show this year's record-breaking cotton crop has not been fully discounted in either the cotton or the stock market. The last government cotton crop indicates 18,400,000 bales and the one before that 17,018,000 bales. The average estimate made today by 100 members of the New York Cotton exchange places Wednesday's government cotton estimate at 18,394,000 bales grown but with only 18,400,000 bales to be picked. If these figures are correct this year's cotton crop, including lint, will show over 20,000,000 bales. Chadbourne Rumored Alive. Nothing much has been heard in recent years of Thomas L. Chadbourne who was George Gould's lawyer and active right-hand man in railroad and stock market deals. Current gossip has it that Chadbourne is working with powerful bankers and politicians on plans to merge Interborough Rapid Transit and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, the last named being the reorganized old Brooklyn Rapid Transit company. According to these reports, Chadbourne proposes to consolidate all of the surface, elevated and subway lines in New York and Brooklyn and then get more than the 5-cent fare required for many years under the charters granted by the city to the various transit companies. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit went through a thorough financial reorganization. Interborough Rapid Transit represents a number of financial reorganizations but none sufficient to bring out all the water. Chadbourne is one of the most active and successful lawyers in Wall street. Whether he and his powerful backers can make Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit carry Interborough Rapid Transit and whether they can get the city to give up its fight to maintain the 5-cent fare remains to be seen.

The majority of Wall street professional stock market traders are bearish on steel common every time it gets to 150 on the belief that the November unfilled order statement of the company to be made public at noon this coming Saturday will indicate a decrease. What has happened since the beginning of this month indicates that the December decrease will be larger than the one in November. From the inside information received from Wall street from steel manufacturing centers, it is plain that since the beginning of December there has been a decided slowing down in the steel trade both in production and new orders booked.

Baldwin Gossip Heard. Today's Wall Street gossip is that Baldwin has agreed to sell its Philadelphia real estate to Reading for $31,000,000 and take payment in the form of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company.

A floor member of a large stock exchange house, a man who has been in Wall street many years and who has had much to do in investing funds in the stock market, has been picked up by several large estates, had this to say with respect to his views on the stock market:

"If some one were to come to me in the next few minutes with $50,000 and $50,000 and ask what stock to buy, my advice would be to buy the money or put it in short term securities so that the principal could be recovered on short notice when needed. I don't think many stocks such as Atchison, New York Central and steel common are sound investments and in a bull market could easily set you back 40 or 50 points higher. The pressure of the funds seeking employment in securities is enormous. However, I just cannot get bullish on the stock market with prices at the existing high level. But the ticker has been saying that I am wrong, so my opinion is not worth anything." This is the view-point of many successful Wall street investors and speculators, who are refusing to have anything to do with the stock market despite the opportunities for making "Christmas money."

Chicago Story Doubled. People in the financial district here who opinions count for something do not credit the stories of the large blocks of Baldwin accumulated by the Chicago crowd that has just made a killing in that stock. It is pointed out in such quarters that with a large floating stock it is not necessary for the Chicago crowd to accumulate a large amount of Baldwin to have the stock act as it did. It is added that Harvester is in pretty much the same stock market position that Baldwin was before the Chicago crowd made its killing.

Harvester, like Baldwin, has a large short interest, the stock has for a long time been marking time, the amount of floating stock is limited. Harvester's coming to life and suddenly making a high seven points above its old high suggests that, having "cleaned up" in Baldwin, the Chicago crowd has turned its attention to Harvester, a more or less home product. There are only 200,000 shares of Baldwin. There are 908,000 shares of Harvester.
